FORMAL REPLIES SENT.

Place of Meeting Not Yet Definitely Decided But May Be the Hague.

Washington, June 14.—President Roosevelt has received Russia's formal response to the identical note sent to the belligerent nations. It is in consonance with the oral assurances heretofore given by Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador. The time and place of a meeting between representatives of the two governments remain to be decided upon. Paris is said to have been suggested by Russia, while Japan has expressed a preference for London. It is not believed, however, that either of these places will be selected and The Hague is being considered as a desirable place for the conference.

Direct communication between St. Petersburg and Tokio has not yet been established. The White House is yet the medium for all communications between the two capitals. Important details remain to be agreed upon before the plenipotentiaries of the belligerents can meet to discuss the means of ending the war.

There is adequate authority for the statement that there is no actual hitch in the preliminary negotiations. Progress is being made, but it may be several days, or even longer, before all details for the meeting can be definitely fixed.

LOST ONLY CHILD.

Little Ruth Stone Succumbs to a Long Illness.

Ruth Stone, the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Stone, of Herndon, Ky., died Tuesday at a Hospital in Montgomery, Ala., aged 10 months. The parents took the little one to the seashore at Pate Christian, Miss., two months ago and started from there to Asheville, N. C., when the child became so much worse that they stopped at Montgomery, where she died. They reached Hopkinsville yesterday morning with the body, and proceeded to Sturgis, Ky., where the interment will take place to-day. Dr. and Mrs. Stone will then return to their home at Herndon. They have the sympathies of many friends in the loss of their only child.

WEDDED AT PEMBROKE.

Miss Fannie Garnett Married to Dr. Gray.

At the home of Mr. R. W. Downer, Pembroke, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Miss Mary Fannie Garnett was married to Dr. Claud F. Gray, of Russellville, Ky. Rev. W. E. Mitchell, pastor of the Pembroke Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride is a sister of Messrs. Joe. F. Garnett and Walter F. Garnett, of this city. Dr. Gray is a prominent optician of Russellville, where they will make their home.

MRS. QUARLES,

An Aged Patient of the Asylum Died of Consumption.

Mrs. Martha Quarles, who had been an inmate of the asylum for twenty years, died of consumption Monday night, aged 69 years. She leaves several children. The remains were shipped by Pyle & Smithson to Clarksville Tuesday.

CHAMPIONS COME NEXT.

Vincennes, Flushed With Victory, Due Here To-morrow.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Princeton is Now Crowding Cairo For Third Place in the Column.

The net results of the last series of games has been a steady decline in the percentage columns of Paducah and Cairo and a slight increase in Hopkinsville over Henderson. Vincennes is pretty securely fixed in first place, while Princeton is crowding Cairo for third position.

In Monday's game Princeton shut out Paducah in both games of a double-header at Paducah. Becker, Princeton's new pitcher, was in both games and allowed only five hits.

At Cairo Vincennes beat Cairo 3 to 1 and at Henderson, the locals took the game from Hopkinsville 4 to 1. Morgan pitched for Henderson and Perdue for Hopkinsville.

Tuesday Hopkinsville beat Henderson 2 to 1. Bomar, Schan and Rutledge, and Asher and Schissel were the batteries.

Vincennes beat Paducah on the home grounds 6 to 3. Dugan and Lemon and Frakes and Vahrenherst were the batteries.

Princeton did the same for Cairo on the latter's home grounds, the score being 3 to 1. Batteries—Carnes and Downing, Bitroff and Harvey.

It was a bad day for home teams, as every one playing on its own grounds met defeat.

Yesterday's game closed the present series and the Browns will come home to-day.

To-morrow a new series with the champions will begin and there will be two games Friday and Saturday. The Sunday game will be transferred.

CHAT OFF THE BAT.

Sometimes you have to go away from home to find out the news. The Cairo Bulletin says:

"In an interview with President Charles Brown he told a Register reporter that there was a strong probability of Hopkinsville dropping out of the league. The management claims it cannot pay the salaries the other managers are paying, and with an inferior team cannot draw. Mr. Vernon, Ind., and Owensboro, Ky., have applied for Hopkinsville's berth and one of these cities will be accepted if Hoptown does quit. As Owensboro is the largest of the two it will likely be the lucky bidder. The president said the teams were being cut to twelve men and getting nearer the salary limit."

Mullen has returned from Henderson and resumed his place on the police force. There was some difficulty in filling his place and his leave of absence was revoked.

LOBLOLLY PINE TIES

TREATING WITH PRESERVATIVE IMPROVES DURABILITY.

Bureau of Forestry Makes Study of Trees in East Texas—Finds Out How to Economize in Their Production.

A good example of what is being done along the most practical lines by the bureau of forestry of the United States department of agriculture, or the forest service as its designation will become in July 1, 1905, is furnished by the results of a study of loblolly pine in east Texas which it has recently made.

One of the chief purposes for which loblolly is now used in the Gulf states is for railroad ties. The wood is not durable and the tie in its natural state is short-lived, but by preservative treatment it can be made to resist decay for a number of years. The discovery that treated loblolly pine is an excellent substitute for longleaf for railroad ties is greatly to the benefit of the railroads.

Loblolly pine is found in commercial quantities in ten counties of east Texas, where it covers an area of nearly 1,800,000 acres, and is hewn into cross-ties on a larger scale than in any other state. The magnitude of this industry results from an abundant supply of loblolly pine in sizes just suited for pole ties. It is estimated that from 75 to 80 per cent. of the present loblolly stand in Texas is under 12 inches in diameter, the remainder being large enough for lumber. The preponderance of comparatively young and small timber is due principally to severe storms in 1865 and 1873 which overthrew old pine on many thousands of acres and establish new stands.

Three counties in east Texas—Orange, Jasper and Newton—furnish annually from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 hewn loblolly pine ties. The trees cut for ties vary in size from 11 to 17 inches in diameter, measured breast high. The hewers prefer diameters of 12, 13 and 14 inches as the smaller the tree, above the specifications, the less the labor in squaring it. The largest number taken are 15 inches in diameter. This practice is very wasteful, for the average tree 11 inches in diameter is about 35 years old and is growing rapidly. The average yearly increase in value between 11 and 12 inches is over 7 per cent., and from 13 to 14 inches 5.5 per cent. After the latter size is reached growth falls off so fast that for the next inch of growth the increase averages only 2.5 per cent., and at 16 inches the value for hewn ties ceases to increase.

These facts point out the rule which the owner should follow in selling trees for ties. Those 11, 12 and 13 inches in diameter are growing so rapidly both in size and value that to cut them consumes the capital that is bringing him the best rate of interest. The timber should be confined to 14, 15 and 16-inch diameters. Trees above 16 inches should be preserved until they can be profitably felled for lumber.

The adoption of this rule will be best for the owner and for the productive future of the forest as well. It will however necessitate a complete change in the method of getting out ties as they will have to be saved instead of hewed. But this too would be a gain for both owner and forest, since hewing is a very wasteful method of the production. Under it many of the larger trees are cut with unnecessarily high stumps in order to save labor in hewing down the butts. In many other cases the trees are not used as far up into the tops as they might be. Further, the hewing process itself is very wasteful, and leaves in the woods a quantity of timber in the shape of slabs and chips which is often stored and later for sale as fuel or charcoal.

If having it cut properly, it would be possible to utilize the tops of 11, 12, 13 and 14-inch trees, and to use the tops of 15 and 16-inch trees, and to use the tops of 17 and 18-inch trees, and to HOW SHE BROKE HER ENGAGEMENT

BY BARRY PAIN.

Dear Mr. Smith: You see even from the first words of my letter you will gather what it is I have to say. I can no longer call you George. In fact, I never ought to have called you George at all. I was young and rash and had not taken everything into account. However, it is better that the mistake should be rectified now than when it is too late. That is what papa said last night.

Yes, George. I told papa last night all about what was then our engagement. He says that it can never, never be; or, at any rate, we had better take time to think about it. He had no prejudice against you personally; in many ways he admires you as, of course, anybody would who had the privilege of knowing you. I should say that he really was deeply attached to you, but it was certainly his idea that we had better not be engaged at present. He says that your income is not sufficient. I am not a strong woman and I have never been used to roughing it. Suppose I tell you I think of the misery of it: you would never be able to endure the misery of an invalid wife. I know I seem to be in health and that I have generally a good appetite, but so on, but these things are very deceptive. Under any strain, for instance, if I had to do any kind of work, I feel sure that I should collapse utterly. So under the circumstances, however hard it may be, I feel it my duty to write and to break off our engagement.

What I am going to say now has nothing to do with the above, but as I happened to be writing I thought I had better mention it. Do you remember saying that Miss Adelaide Jones was the most perfect and complete cat you ever met? You were quite wrong. I feel that I ought to mention this in order that you may do her more justice in the future. I saw her this morning and I have told her everything, and anything more considerate and angelic it would be impossible to conceive. She said that she had heard of the engagement and knew from the first that it could never come to anything. Then she told me the reason why.

Of course, George, you are not answerable to me in any way now, and it is really no concern of mine, but I think you might have told me what passed between you and Miss Brown. If I had known how far things had gone between you I should never for one moment have permitted what I did.

At the same time you must not think that I am blaming you. Of course she is not beautiful, very far from it; and I am not going to pretend that her manners are in any way pleasing. Her laugh is far too loud, and her teeth are perfectly awful. Still everybody admits that she is extremely good to her mother, and I am quite glad and relieved to think that this was an attraction in your eyes.

I really honor you for having noticed Miss Smith's devotion to her mother and for having fallen in love with her in consequence. I know many a man who could not have done it. Only I do think that in justice to me you might have mentioned it, and in justice to her that I should not have allowed her to suppose that there was even a tacit engagement between you. Of course she did suppose it; Miss Adelaide Jones told me so distinctly, and she told me all about that week at Healey too; in fact, she has shown herself a true friend in this trying time. I feel sure now that you will be sorry you ever called her a cat, and that you will never do it again. This had nothing whatever to do with my reasons for breaking off our engagement, and I hope you will not be misled into thinking that it has. I am fairly humble and am quite willing to admit that Edith Brown has very much the advantage of me in age and experience, but I am afraid I cannot regard her as a rival; she is merely one of the people that one takes no notice of.

I should like you to say what you wish me to do about your letters and presents. My instinct, of course, is to return them. I was crying over them all last night and thinking that I should much prefer to return them. It seems almost a pity now that you had the ring altered so as to fit me, but I darest a good jeweler could put an inch or so on it, and then it will fit Edith Brown just as well. She has also plump little hands, hasn't she? I ask you to tell me what to do because I have only my instinct to guide me and do not know what is the etiquette on these occasions.

So you see, George dearest, that I must submit to papa's superior wisdom and that we must definitely say good-by. Perhaps many years after this you may meet again when you have married Edith, and I only hope that we shall meet as friends. Faithfully yours,

JANE ROBINSON.

P. B.—I have just received invitation from the Browns to their daughter's wedding reception. She is a dear little mouse of a thing, and I think she might have done better than a Dis-senting minister, but mamma says it is a very old engagement. I do not know if there was anything in my letter to imply that we should break off our engagement, but I never intended anything of the kind. Mamma is just in your favor and I can always make papa do just what I like.

P. B. 2.—Mamma says that Adelaide Jones is a cat, too.

P. B. 3.—Forgive me. I am awfully sorry. But how was I to know?—The Tailor.

Blackhead.

We regret that there seems to be considerable trouble throughout the country with reference to blackhead with turkeys. For two years we have urged upon our readers the necessity of having new, strong, non-related blood for producing turkeys. This disease of blackhead is fostered by ill health and lack of vigor, and the way to drive it out is to continually wage war against its possibility through building up the stock.—Feacher.

The Weather.

Generally rainy today.

Yellow fever is still interfering with work at Panama. Seven new cases were reported yesterday.

Judge M. D. Brown, who was mentioned for county attorney on the Republican ticket in Hopkins county, was not nominated. The nomination went to L. R. Fox.

Premier Theodore Delanyannis, of Greece, was murdered in Athens Tuesday by a gambler, out of revenge for the premier's violent opposition to gambling. The murderer was arrested.

Miss Bray, of Lafayette, Tenn., caught a runaway horse by the bit and saved the lives of a woman and four children in a buggy. A girl who could do a thing like that, deserves a "ant husband."

The Court of Appeals has decided that only one conviction can be had in each county in the cases against the Standard Oil Company for violation of the peddlers' license. The court held that each unlicensed sale does not constitute a separate offense.

King Oscar of Sweden has written a letter to the Norway Storting denying that he overstepped his prerogatives and declaring that he will uphold the union. In spite of this mild threat, Norway is going ahead and will fight if necessary to dissolve the union of 1814.

All world's records for train speed were broken Monday morning when a Pennsylvania railroad special from Crestline, Ohio, to Ft. Wayne, Ind., made three miles in eighty-five seconds. The run was made in Ohio and was at the rate of 127.8 miles an hour.

There seems to be no room to doubt that the peace negotiations are proceeding without hitch or hindrance. M. Witte, the greatest of Russian statesmen, is likely to be a chief actor on the Russian side, when the matter is turned over to the diplomats.

Former Gov. Robert L. Taylor formally announces his candidacy for the United States Senate. In doing so he opposes Senator E. W. Carmack, who is a candidate for re-election. Gov. Taylor favors a direct primary, and says before it is over "red hair will be scattered all over Tennessee." Senator Carmack happens to wear Auburn locks.

The fifteenth annual reunion of Confederate Veterans, now in progress at Louisville, is a notable event for the old soldiers. The whole South has poured a tide of visitors into the city and the city is filled to overflowing. Official welcomes were made yesterday by Gov. Beckham and Mayor Grainger and the whole city is decked in gay attire. Gen. Stephen D. Lee is presiding and the business sessions will be interspersed with numerous entertainments.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular.

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is a sure accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, flat throbbing, blood turns, fits of indigestion, dizziness and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued to use it till the sores disappeared." Mrs. L. O. Brown, Ham and Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

All republics are not ungrateful. The old Cuban hero, Gen. Maximo Gomez, is dying and the Cuban Congress has just appropriated $100,000 to make his last days comfortable.

Maj. Marmaduke B. Bowden has started a very interesting little insurance paper at Louisville called "The Cloc," published in the interest of the Citizens Life Insurance Company. The current number contains a portrait of Mr. Chas. B. Norton, first vice president of the company, and Maj. Bowden has filled it chock full of good reading matter with this sort of "horse sense": "Commerce is a question of transportation. The progress and prosperity of a people may largely be judged by their transportation facilities, and depend upon those facilities. The first and greatest need of the South is good roads—country roads. After that an increase in the number, mileage and efficiency of its railroads. Then will come the interurban traction roads, linking neighborhood to neighborhood, town to town, and county to county, in intimate association. With Southern money kept at home, there would be plenty of money, and with money plentiful all these things would come, and come with a rapidity so great that the man in middle life today would share their benefits before his day were done."

Frank Bigelow, the Milwaukee bank president, is meeting his fate like a man. He used the bank's funds to speculate and lost. Used more to recover the losses and kept losing until $1,000,000 had been squandered. He was pursued and brought back, but Bigelow made no attempt to escape. He surrendered, confessed and pleaded guilty. Indicted on ten counts he was given the maximum penalty on only one and the same day went without a murmur to prison in Kansas. He was a man of great wealth, prominent in society, in business and in family connections. An old man, 67 years old, he wept silently as he was taken to prison, where he has quietly donned the stripes and submitted to all the rules. The penitent thief is not so bad. There are worse men than Bigelow outside of the penitentiary.

The volcano at Mt. Pelée, on the island of Martinique, is becoming active again. It has been calm since the fearful eruption of May, 1902, in which 40,000 lives were lost. Dense clouds of smoke are ascending from the crater to the height of 3,000 feet.

At a special election, Thomas B. Davis, Democrat, was elected to Congress over Lakin, Republican, from the Second West Virginia district, by a majority of about 1,000. He succeeds Dayton, Republican.

AN INDIAN HEROINE

SHOSHONE WOMAN RECEIVES
TARDY RECOGNITION.

Faithful and Intelligent Guide and Interpreter of the Lewis and Clark Expedition—Bronze
Statue in Her Honor.

The Lewis and Clark expedition pays honor to a brave woman, an Indian squaw, whose untiring aid was of great benefit to the intrepid explorers that made the famous journey across the wide continent a century ago.

The woman's name is Sacajawea, pronounced Sak-ah-Jaw-eh, the accent on the fourth syllable. Concerning the importance of the part played by her in the expedition, a writer declares: "Sacajawea, or Tachikawa, as some authorities write her name, was the bird woman who guided Lewis and Clark across the mountains and who, on several occasions, aided the explorers when all hope of ever seeing the ocean seemed lost. Next to Jefferson, who sent them, it is Sacajawea who guided them, who the expedition managers think deserves to be enshrined with Lewis and Clark."

It is a rather tardy recognition this country is bestowing on this woman, but a grateful recognition; though late, a noble tribute. A heroic bronze sta-ue of the heroine is to stand in the center of Columbia court, which is the central plaza of the exposition. The statue, which cost $7,000, was executed by a woman, Miss Alice Cooper, of Denver.

And speaking of this monument to a member of the red race, reminds there is evidence that far and wide artists and sculptors are making haste to preserve the intensely interesting fragments of history of the Indians. are living the half-primitive life with them that they may catch the spirit of this strange people now fast fading away. Miss Cooper had for her model a Shoshone girl, for a member of this tribe was Sacajawea.

The way she happened to be a member of the Lewis and Clark expedition is as follows: Captured as a girl by the enemies of the Shoshones, the Minuties or Blackfeet, she was sold by the captors to Charbonneau, a French-Canadian voyager, and became one of his three slave wives. Charbonneau became attached to the expedition as interpreter, and Sacajawea accompanied her master.

From Fort Mandar, where Charbonneau joined Lewis and Clark in the tedious journey up the Missouri river, Sacajawea not only drugged patients, but early rendered the party valuable services. At one time, with her husband and child, traveling in a canoe that held the scientific instruments, valuable papers and medicines, the canoe was caught in the rapids and began to fill with water. The Indian woman, who saw the papers floating out on the water, rescued them before she turned attention to her child. This was the first notable instance of the courage and presence of mind that distinguished her long period of service with the explorers.

The fact that she was a Shoshone helped the party immensely when they came into the country of these Indians. Sacajawea immediately made friends with the squaws and recognized the chief as her brother. There was mutual recognition and joy, and the strangers were treated most hospitably by the Shoshones. They were given horses, directed as to routes, shown every courtesy, and while time on Sacajawea was looked upon as something more than a slave woman. She became the most important of the interpreters.

In a time of lack of food, she gave Lewis a piece of bread she had saved for her last. "The bits of white morsel, being so precious, were not given to her as a reward for her service, but as a sign of friendship and respect for her heroism." "The fact that she was a Shoshone helped the party immensely when they came into the country of these Indians. Sacajawea immediately made friends with the squaws and recognized the chief as her brother. There was mutual recognition and joy, and the strangers were treated most hospitably by the Shoshones. They were given horses, directed as to routes, shown every courtesy, and while time on Sacajawea was looked upon as something more than a slave woman. She became the most important of the interpreters."

At the close of the expedition the captain gave Charbonneau $500 for his services. Sacajawea received nothing. "Sacajawea lived on with her husband (the old chief) who had been accustomed to. From having been the moving spirit of an expedition which made its leaders famous all over the world, and which resulted in a vast acquisition for the country they served, she became once more the slave wife."

NO FIRE,

But Lots of Excitement, a Horse Run Over and Fireman Injured.

The fire alarm was turned in from the residence of Mrs. J. H. Dagg, on South Virginia street Wednesday at 1:35. The fire originated in the kitchen from a defective flue and was extinguished before the fire department arrived. In fact they did not get there at all, as George, one of the horses, failed to make a prompt start. George had been sick for some time and has not had the harness on him for six weeks and doubtless imagined that he was to enjoy his temporary freedom from service the remainder of his life. It was just five minutes from the time the alarm was turned in before George realized that he had to "go," and then he wanted to go every way but the right one. He broke the tongue off the hose carriage as a preliminary to his other performances, which rendered it impossible for the driver to guide his team, and one of the front wheels striking the curbing in front of the residence of Dr. Venable. Lee Morris was thrown to the ground and sustained a slight injury to one of his arms. Before reaching the residence of Dr. Venable, owing to the broken wagon tongue, the horses ran to either side of the street they wanted to and were so inconsiderate as to run over a horse, we are told, that happened to be on the street. In view of the fact that George has become "stuck up" by the praise of the newspapers lately and by reason of his immunity from work so long, he will be punished with a rapid drive every morning until he learns to behave himself and stop giving "grand stand" performances to the danger of people's property.

Furious Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold under guarantee to do the same for you by R. C. Hardwick, druggist, at 50c a bottle. Try them today.

Circuit Court.

The proceedings in the Circuit Court so far this week have been taken up in the trial of damage suits against the L. & N. R. R. Samuel Marlow brought suit for $5,000. The jury gave the verdict for the L. & N. The case of H. W. Denson was on trial part of Tuesday and Wednesday. This is a case for alleged damages sustained by plaintiff being put off an L. & N. train. The next case is that of W. H. Taylor against Lee Morris and the Federal Union Security Co. The damage suit of Miss Annie May Braher against the T. C. Railroad will probably come up to-day. It is not supposed that any other cases will be tried.
